(h) Historical archives and documents related to the Organization.

Section 3. Responsibility for Records

The General Secretary shall serve as the primary custodian of official organizational records unless otherwise assigned by the Board of Directors.

The General Secretary shall:

(a) Maintain and organize official documents.

(b) Record and preserve minutes of meetings.

(c) Maintain communication records.

(d) Ensure proper transfer of records between outgoing and incoming officeholders.

Section 4. Access to Records

Official records of the Organization shall be accessible to authorized members and officers for legitimate organizational purposes.

Access to confidential documents may be restricted by the Board of Directors when necessary to protect the interests, privacy, or security of the Organization.

Section 5. Preservation of Institutional History

The Organization shall preserve records, documents, publications, and materials that represent its achievements, activities, and development.

The Organization may establish an archive system or dedicated department for maintaining historical records.

Section 6. Digital Records and Information Management

The Organization may maintain digital records, databases, and electronic archives for efficient administration and preservation of information.

Digital records shall be protected against unauthorized access, alteration, or loss.

Section 7. Transfer of Records

Upon completion of an officer's term, resignation, removal, or replacement, all official records, documents, materials, and organizational property under their responsibility shall be transferred to the succeeding officer or designated authority.

Failure to properly transfer organizational records shall be considered a violation of organizational responsibility.

Section 8. Confidentiality of Records

Members and officers entrusted with organizational records shall maintain confidentiality regarding sensitive information.

Confidential records shall not be disclosed or used for personal purposes without proper authorization.

Section 9. Record Review and Accountability

The Board of Directors shall have the authority to review organizational records to ensure accuracy, transparency, and compliance with these Bylaws.

ARTICLE XXXVI

DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURES

Section 1. Purpose of Disciplinary Procedures

The Organization shall establish fair and transparent disciplinary procedures to address misconduct, violations of these Bylaws, and actions that may harm the interests, unity, or reputation of the Organization.

Disciplinary measures shall aim to maintain accountability, fairness, and organizational discipline.

The Board of Directors may establish an Investigation Committee to examine allegations of misconduct.

The Investigation Committee shall:

(a) Review available evidence and information.

(b) Provide the accused member an opportunity to present their explanation.

(c) Conduct proceedings fairly and without bias.

(d) Submit findings and recommendations to the appropriate authority.

Section 5. Right to Fair Hearing

No member or officer shall be subjected to disciplinary action without being informed of the allegations and given a reasonable opportunity to respond.

The principles of fairness and due process shall be followed in all disciplinary matters.

Section 6. Disciplinary Measures

Depending on the severity of the violation, disciplinary actions may include:

(a) Verbal warning.

(b) Written warning.

(c) Temporary suspension of membership rights or organizational duties.

(d) Removal from an appointed or elected position.

(e) Termination of membership.

(f) Any other corrective action approved under these Bylaws.

Section 7. Removal of Officers

An elected or appointed officer may be removed from office for serious misconduct, violation of organizational responsibilities, abuse of authority, or failure to fulfill assigned duties.

Removal shall require approval by the authority specified under these Bylaws.

Section 8. Appeal Rights

A member or officer subject to disciplinary action shall have the right to appeal the decision to the appropriate higher authority within a period established by organizational procedures.

The final decision shall be made according to the principles of fairness and organizational law.

Section 9. Restoration and Rehabilitation

The Organization may provide opportunities for restoration of membership rights or responsibilities when appropriate, considering the nature of the violation and the conduct of the individual.

Section 10. Confidentiality of Proceedings

Disciplinary proceedings shall be handled with appropriate confidentiality to protect the dignity and rights of all individuals involved.

Information regarding disciplinary matters shall only be disclosed to authorized persons or when required by organizational necessity.

ARTICLE XXXVII

COMMITTEES AND DEPARTMENTS

Upon dissolution, the Organization shall:

(a) Complete pending obligations.

(b) Settle outstanding debts and responsibilities.

(c) Preserve important records and documents.

(d) Properly manage remaining assets.

Section 5. Distribution of Remaining Assets

Upon dissolution of the Organization, any remaining funds, property, or assets shall not be distributed among its members, officers, directors, or any private individual. Instead, all remaining assets shall be donated to one or more registered charitable or non-profit organizations, as determined by the General Assembly or as required by applicable law.

ARTICLE XL

TRANSITIONAL AND FINAL PROVISIONS

Section 1. Effective Date

These Bylaws shall become effective upon adoption and approval by the authorized founding authority of the Organization.

Section 2. Transitional Arrangements

During the transition from the Founding Phase to the regular organizational structure:

(a) Existing officers shall continue to perform their responsibilities until successors are elected or appointed.

(b) The Board of Directors shall ensure proper implementation of these Bylaws.

(c) Necessary procedures shall be established to facilitate a smooth transition.

Section 3. Interpretation of Bylaws

Any questions regarding the interpretation of these Bylaws shall be resolved by the Board of Directors, subject to review and approval by the General Assembly when necessary.

Section 4. Supremacy of Bylaws

These Bylaws shall serve as the highest governing document of the Organization.

All policies, decisions, and actions of the Organization shall remain consistent with these Bylaws.

Section 5. Severability

If any provision of these Bylaws is found invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall continue to remain in full effect.

Section 6. Final Commitment

All members, officers, and representatives of the Organization shall uphold these Bylaws and work collectively toward fulfilling the mission, objectives, and principles of the Organization.
